

Team Uganda Assistant Project Leader Skills and Attributes

The successful Assistant Project Leader is likely to be:

- A good leader with experience of supporting others to work as a team and give their best;
- Patient, tactful and diplomatic;
- Proactive and self-motivated;
- Friendly and approachable with a good listening ear;
- A strong communicator, with the ability to keep people focused and motivated;
- Organised and able to plan and prioritise;
- Positive, flexible and adaptable;
- Good at solving problems and resolving conflicts;
- Sensitive to other cultures;
- Keen to learn and to support others in learning and sharing knowledge;
- Resourceful and happy to get stuck in to get the job done;
- Able to think on their feet and respond to changing situations.

They will ideally have:

- Experience of travelling (preferably, but not limited to, volunteering) in a developing country;
- Experience of leading and motivating others, preferably in a team;
- Significant volunteering experience (in the UK or their home country or overseas) and a good understanding of volunteering;
- Experience of providing support to peers, for example as a peer mentor;
- Experience of working with people of different cultures;
- Some understanding of development issues relating to the work of S.A.L.V.E. International.